FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1857.

Many have expressed surprise that Madeline Smith of Glasgow, Scotland, tried for murder, was not convicted. We are not at all surprised at it.

It seems that Miss Smith, an accomplished young lady of a highly respectable family, was seduced by a Frenchman, and that she wrote to him a great many passionate letters, the language of which imthe consummation of her shame. Her reputhe consummation of her taken did not suffer, and, after a time, she received an offer of honorable marriage from a merchant of wealth. She consequently undertook to break off the relations between herself and her seducer, but the latter would not permit it, telling her in his letters, that, if she dared to leave him, he would expose her, by means of the documents in his possession, to her family and the world. She entreated him most piteously to spare her and persisted for a considerable time in her entreaties, but he was inexorable. And so she poisoned him.

Madeline Smith was unquestionably guilty of two horrid crimes, but we do not believe there is a city in the world where she would have been executed for murder. Jurors always have been and probably always will be, to a certain extent, higher law

LOUISVILLE HOTEL .- This celebrated house, ad mitted to be one of the best arranged hotels in the country, is still conducted by Messrs. Kean, Steadman, & Judge. Though Mr. Kean has taken an interest in a new hotel at Milwaukie, he has not relinquished that in the hotal here. The former patrons of the Louisville will, however, find there the junior of the firm, Mr. Philip Judge, who has been connected with it many years, and whose affability and courtesy have made him a great favorite, and added so largely to the popularity of the house. Mr. Steadman is a Kentuckian, and a gentleman who needs only to become known to win the good opin-ions of the guests. And we must not omit to mention Mr. Bull, the book-keeper, whose uniform politeness and attention make even a stranger feel at home.

THE KNICKERBOCKER FOR AUGUST .- This venerable monthly, with its rich freightage of choice literature, rare humor, and felicitous wit, is up to time. The dog-days could not repress the genial fun and sentiment of its glorious editor, and the sweltering heat was impotent in restraining the delightful thoughts and pure fancies of its contribu-

A TIMELY PROCLAMATION .- Mayor Pilcher has acted with his usual discretion in issuing a proclamation requesting the keepers of coffee houses to close their establishments on the day of the election. We trust there will be none who will refuse to comply with this most reasonable request.

Capt. E. T. Sturgeon has received a dispatch from St. Louis stating that Mr. A. J. Fielder, son of Stark Fielder, Esq., of this city, had fallen off a train on the Pacific Railroad, and was so seriously injured that his life was despaired of. Mr. F. was acting as conductor at the time.

PHYME OF EVELYN OF TUSCANY! Bride Evelyn sits at her palace window. Full in the midnight splendor, In all their flashing pride The tall spires of the ocean-queen Tower grandly far and wide.

Proud Venice on her throne of isles; And sweetly rising like a dream Beyond the glorious hills, Pale Luna in her royal white

And the bright waves of the "Golden Shell" A sea of crystal glorified, Lies trem'lous in the breeze, Stretching away to the vague unknown Like a poet's reveries.

The winds are heavily sweet with odor. Bride Evelyn leans her regal brow Against the massy pane— Her wild black hair rolls to her feet, A storm of midnight rain!

Her white arms shine with matchless jewels. And like the sea of rosy waves That flood the sunset sky, Rich draperies sweeping from the ceil Around her blushing lie

The room is grand and antiquated-The gorgeous carpets, weirdly wrought In Persia's magic loom, Glow like a maze of flowery dreams.

The walls are dark with tapestry-Some glorious poet-brain-There battle's awful red right hand Is heaving fields of slain!

The frescoed ceil a paradise! And stooping, like a scraph, from The twilight's fair pavillion,
A dreamy face gleams wilderingly Through clouds of soft vermillion

And over all a glory floateth-A sea of crystal splendor shed From lamps of starry gold, Revealing sculpture's wildest charms, Poetic, pale, and cold!

But Evelyn wears no smile to-night. Not all the proud magnificence Within that palace-room Can win the lady's shadowed heart From misery and gloom!

A queen of perfect loveliness! Her pearl-bound hair, clasped from a brow mped with imperial pride, Is bright with many a burning gem And the roses of a bride.

And under brows of Arab darkness, The splendid lightnings of a soul, Untrammelled as the storm, Flash through the midnight of despair A radiance wild and warm

Why waits she at her golden lattice? Is it to see the mellow drift Of starlight on the hills? Or the beauty of the gemmy sea, That thus her dark eye fills?

Or waiteth she her husband's step? Why starts she thus with bitter moan? What dismal strains are these? For hark! the lordly rise and fall

A breathless marble agony-Crushing her rich robe's dainty folds, With white hands locked in prayer, She looks toward a prison-wall; What seeth the lady there?

Pale shapes that waver to and fro. And many a gorgeous gondola Is gliding swiftly down.

The prison's haughty frown. And now deep bells are ringing Not with the loud tumultuous swell Of victory's mighty roll! But the mournful diapason for Some hapless passing soul!

A monarch's jewelled hand hath bound The roses on her brow-In all their mocking loveliness They burn like curses now!

For in the morn of blushing flowers, A pale grief entered her young life Its beauty to unknit, And left her in the shadow of A broken heart to sit.

She was most cruelly sold-ah me! The Tuscan lilies wreathed for her, One twilight by the sea, And withered silently.

And him, her pure heart worshipped Clasped from the weary, weary world, Within the prison-bars, To-night death's angel claims his own

The victim of her father's hate-And this is why all mournfully, The haughty lady stands, Crushing her rich robe's jeweled folds With wildly clasped hands!

The dreaming ripples of the sea, Break in long tides of music o'er Their sunset-tinted shells; She only hears a wail of death, Through all their golden swells.

The crystal lamps burn fitfully, step is on the marble stair. And now 'tis at the do A pale shroud like a twilight mist Trails dimly on the floor.

Bride Evelyn falls a blasted thing!

Faintly the sweet morn's waning light Shines through the gilded pane. The wild wind drifts the lady's hair A storm of midnight rain! EMMA ALICE BROWNE.

is a large colony of blacks. THE LAST ADMINISTRATION AND THE FILLIBUS-TERS .- Gen. Wool has written a letter to the National Intelligencer, touching that passage in Gen. William Walker's letter to President Buchanan, in which, referring to the grant of colonization from Don Francisco Castillon, and under the provisions of which he (Walker) went to Nicaragua, he says: As soon as I received it (the grant), I showed it to the United States District Attorney for the Northern District of California, and to the General commanding the Pacific Division, who then had special powers and instructions from the President, under the neutrality act of 1818. Both these officers informed me that I could act under the contract, not only without fear of interference on their part, but with the express assurance that they would do all in their power to forward the enterprise.

Gen. Wool gives a narrative exhibiting the reason why he did not, on the occasion referred to, interfere with Gen. Walker. He refers to the circumstances under which he accepted the command of the Pacific department, in December, 1853. Certain negotiations were pending between Mexico and the United States, which President Pierce and Sec retary of War Davis feared would lead to war, and, having great confidence in his (Gen. Wool's) long experience and judgment, they desired that he should accept of the command of that division, which he did. Secretary Davis directed his attention to certain special duties devolving on him in addition to the ordinary duties of the military com-

Among these will be the duty of maintaining our international obligations by preventing unlawful expeditions against the terrutories of foreign powers. Confidence is felt that you will, to the atmost of your ability, use all proper means to detect the fitting out of armed expeditions against countries with which the United States are at peace, and will zealously cooperate with the civil authorities in maintaining the neutrality laws.

The President, in a proclamation given to General

All officers of the government, civil and military, to use any efforts which may be in their power to arrest for trial and punishment every such offender.

With these instructions Gen. Wool went to California, and he says he was not long in discovering that Col. Watkins and Mr. Emory were recruiting men for Walker, then in Lower California; and that the Mexican Consul, Del Valle, and Patrice Dillon, French Consul, were raising an army for Raossuet Boulbon's designs on Sonora. "Upon these facts, which I obtained and presented to the District Attorney," writes Gen. Wool, "Watkins, Emory, and the two Consuls were arrested, tried, and with one exception convicted." Walker, being forced to surrender, was sent to Gen. Wool, under whose auspices he was indicted and tried,

The remainder of Gen. Wool's narrative we copy in his own language:

About this time I received an extraordinary letter from the Secretary of War, Jefferson Davis, an extract of which is annexed:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, April 14, 1854.
Sir: * * * Your remarks in relation to unlawful expeditions sailing from the coast of California suggest the propriety of referring you to your instructions upon the subject. It was not expected or desired that the military commander should do more than belongs to the ordinary relations of the civil and military power; and, in instructing you to aid the civil authorities, it was not intended that you should originate agreety and prosecutions for civil methods. originate arrests and prosecutions for civil musde-meanors. You will readily perceive that conse-quences injurious to the public service would proba-bly follow from such interference by the military with the functions of civil authorities.

This most singular and extraordinary letter was no less a censure for the part I acted in breaking up the fillibustering scheme of Walker, Watkins, Em the fillibustering scheme of Walker, Watkins, Emory, and of the French and Mexican consuls, than it nullified the Secretary's own instructions, which required me to "maintain our international obligations by preventing unlawful expeditions against the Territories of foreign powers," and the President's proclamation which required "all officers, civil and military, to use any efforts which may be in their power to arrest for trial and punishment every such offender."

power to arrest for trial and punishment every such offender."

After receiving this letter, Col. Walker, apprehensive that I might interfere with his expedition then preparing for Central America, called on me, and, as he said, to satisfy me that he was not engaged in any unlawful or fillibustering scheme. I simply remarked, in reply, that, with the instructions which I had recently received from the Secretary of War, whether or not he was engaged in any such enterprise, I had no authority to interfere with him—certainly not until I was called upon by the civil authorities to aid in suppressing it.

The above explanation and facts seem to be called for by Wm. Walker's letter to the President, in order to show why it was that I did not interfere to prevent his expedition to Central America, the object of which, as declared by its friends at the time, was to conquer several States in that region, and

TERRIBLE RIOT AT CAIRO .- Attack on the Free Negroes by a Gang of Desperadoes—Firearms Used. and Several Persons Wounded - Buildings Fired-Organization of a Vigilance Committee - Several of the Desperadoes Arrested-Great Excitement in Cairo. The Cincinnati Times has a correspondent at Cairo, Ill., who, writing from there under date of the 27th,

CAIRO, Sunday, July 26. Our city is now in a state of great excitement. Riot and lawlessness ran rampant last night; blood was shed, and the city had a narrow escape from conflagration. I hasten to give you the details so far as I can gather them.

It seems that a number of slaves escaped from Miscourie in this vicinity.

It seems that a number of slaves escaped from Missouri, in this vicinity, a few days ago. It was ascertained that they had made their way to Cairo, and a number of Missourians came over in pursuit of them. They were here joined by a number of the most desperate characters of the city, who, supposing that the fugitives were secreted among the free negroes of the place, determined to made a search for them last evening after dark.

About half-past 1 o'clock this morning our citizens, who knew nothing of the affair, were alarmed.

zens, who knew nothing of the affair, were alarmed by the repeated discharge of firearms, accompanied by the yells of men and the screams of women. It was terrific, and brough the people to the streets. A gang of men, armed to the teeth, cursing the niggers, made their way to that portion of the city occupied by the free blacks. They surrounded and immediately commenced an assault upon one of the houses, forcing in the doors and windows. A number of blacks including two or three women ware houses, forcing in the doors and windows. A number of blacks, including two or three women, were in the house, and as they endeavored to escape they were fired upon. No less than fifty shots were fired, some of them by the negroes. There was an instant stampede of the blacks from all parts of the city, and they were pursued, and in some instances fired at. The assaulting party declared their determination to drive every one of them from Cairo, no matter at what cost.

One of our constables was soon upon the ground, and valiantly interfered in behalf of two negro wo-men who were being maltreated. He also endeav-ored to force the mob to cease their violence, telling them that if they did not he would have them arrested. They laughed in his face, and proceeded with their work of destruction. They entered the house they had broken open, piled the furniture up in the centre of a room, and, with a yell, set it on fire. The constable, aided by some citizens, fortunately extinguished the flames. A high wind was blowing at the time and if the fire had once got blowing at the time, and if the tire had once got under way, as was intended, Cairo would by this time have been in ruins. After performing this act, and causing a scatterment among the negroes, the rioters retired.

Mayor S. S. Taylor called the citizens together at 10 o'clock, and the meeting determined that the rioters should be brought to justice. Mr. M. W. Williams was appointed Marshal, and fifty resolute men volunteered to aid in the arrest.

The Committee visited the house of Gundy Bryant, the leader of the outrages. As they neared it, Mrs. Bryant appeared in the door armed with a gan. She cocked it, and declared she would shoot down the first man who attempted to enter the house. She was suddenly rushed upon, however, and the gun was suddenly rushed upon, however, and the gun token from her before she could use it. She is a des-perate woman. Two of the servants of the Taylor House, very quiet men, were each arrested, and one fined $35 and tha other $50. They were also ordered to leave the State within ten days. To save the remainder of his servants from prosecution, Mr. Davis, of the Taylor House, shipped them, eight in number, by the steamer John Gault, to Louisville to-day.

Friends of missing persons lately attached to Walker's army in Nicaragua may be interested in learning that, as late as the 6th, there were still under charge of the Costa Rican authorities some 300 fillibuster deserters, for whose transportation out of the country arrangements had not yet been made. The New York Times learns this fact by private letter from a gentleman who had the fact officially from the Costa Rican government. It is probable that these men will be brought to Panama by the Central American mail steamer somewhere about the middle of next month.

Another letter from Captain Montgomery, at Aspinwall, who has command of the steam-frigate Roanoke, informs the Department that he will leave there on the 21st inst., or as soon as preparatory arrangements can be effected, for New York, where he will land the remainder of the fillibusters. He says the sick list, by proper medical treatment, has been reduced from one hundred and twenty to fifty, and that some three or four had died from disease brought with them. The storeship Release left Aspinwall on the 15th inst., for Boston, with a portion of Walker's men.

A letter to the New York Times from the Pacific port of Acajutla, in San Salvador, informs us that the cholera broke out in the interior early last month and was raging frightfully, eighteen or twenty deaths per day occurring in the town of Sonso nate, out of a population of about four thousand. The panic occasioned by the presence of this fearful scourge was already widespread, and the natives from every direction were fleeing to the mountains. At Acajutla it was found almost impossible to procure men to carry a little freight on board a vessel in the harbor, although no case of cholera had occurred at the port until the day on which our in-

PIGEON MATCH .- A Mr. King being backed to kill 75 pigeons at 75 shots, for $3,000, the trial took place on Tuesday afternoon, in New York, with the following results: The pigeons were placed in a trap having a spring door, with a string attached, which was held by Mr. King, who stood 10 yards distant. As each bird flew out, he fired, killing 42 birds in the first 50 shots. For the balance of the birds he stood 20 yards distant, letting out two birds at a time, and killed 25 more birds in 22 shots, thus winning the match and having three shots to spare. At the close he offered to bet $1,000 that he could kill 94 birds singly in 100 shots.

SHIPMENT OF ALE TO LIVERPOOL .- Part of the freight on board the bark C. J. Kershaw, which cleared for Liverpool on the 15th inst., was a consignment of pale and amber ale and porter, from the brewery of H. G. Lucas, of Cleveland. The Daily Review learns from Mr. Lucas that "he has made the shipment as a trial, and, if there is any margin for a decent profit, he will ship from 500 to 1,000 barrels during next year, provided he can obtain the facility of a vessel going direct from this port to Liverpool."

Two Irishmen recently inquired of the baggage-master of the Connecticut River Railroad, in Springfield, the freight on their trunks to Chicopee, and were told it was twelve and a half cents, but that, if they paid it, they could ride free themselves, whereupon they said they could walk it just as aisy, and that they were not the craythers to sponge on the corporation. Their trunks were put aboard, and they walked.

The Presbyterian church at Paducah, Ky., have given a unanimous call to the Rev. L. H. Vandoren, who has been acting as their stated supply for the last year, to become their pastor. They have increased the pastor's salary three hundred dollars, to meet the increased expenses of living, and given him five weeks' vacation each year. This church has received several valuable accessions of late, both by letter and on profession of their faith.

POSTPONED .- A correspondent of the Petersburg Express, writing from Goldsborough, N. C., says a few days since a young printer, named Deford, of Portsmouth, Va., made arrangements to run off with a daughter of Deacon Nelson, of Goldsboro'. The trip was postponed, however, in consequence of the "enraged parent" being seen sitting before his door with a heavily loaded musket.

MELANCHOLY SUICIDE .- On Saturday last, Peyton Chandler, of Granville county, North Carolina, son of A. J. Chandler, of Mecklenburg, Va., committed suicide by blowing his brains out. He left a brief note of farewell to his father and mother and sisters. It is conjectured that the fatal catastrophe was precipitated by disappointment in love.

A Mr. Van Liew was found dead about midnight, Monday, in the neighborhood of Mercer and Canal streets, New York. He was returning home with a bottle of porter he had been out to purchase for his sick wife, when it is believed that he was set upon by garroters, and in consequence of sturdy resistance was murdered.

M. Lequerel and M. Lenorment of Paris, both distinguished as chemists, have recently produced detonating powder by dissolving loaf sugar in strong sulphuric acid, and then drying the product. It is stated to be as explosive as gun-cotton, but is not suited for muskets or rifles on account of its great rusting or oxydizing qualities.

The London Literary Journal says: "There are men now going about the streets with crape on their hats, saying, 'Poor Jerrold! how we miss him!' who were never in his company twice in their lives, and who never got anything from him but merited sarcasm for their folly."

Lola Montez has gone to lecturing. She is to deliver two at Buffalo. The topic of her first lecture is "Beautiful Women," in which she discusses the secrets of the toilet, the means of preserving personal beauty, and the history of many celebrated female beauties.

The Indigo crop of the State of Salvador for next year promises to be unusually large and good. The cholera is raging in the State of Salvador, at Cojutepeque, San Salvador, Sonsonati, and other towns. At the end of June the deaths in Sonsonati averaged 16 a day.

Eggs for Burns.—The white of an egg has proved of late the most efficacious remedy for burns. Seven or eight successive applications of this substance soothe pain and exclude the burned parts from the air. This simple remedy seems to us far preferable to collodion, or even cotton.

AN INTERESTING DISCUSSION .- The Henderson Commercial says that the following interesting the Hon. Archibald Dixon before the citizens of ernor of that State. The following statement is Henderson:

1st. That a State, under the Federal Constitution and by virtue of her own sovereignty, has the right to confer the right of suffrage ou persons who are not citizens of the United States for State or Federal

2d. Has a State the power under the Federal Constitution by virtue of her State sovereignty to confer the right of suffrage upon aliens who are residents and inhabitants of such State.

LIVING BEYOND THEIR MEANS -"Half the fash. ionable people in New York," said a gentleman the other day, "are living beyond their means. Mr. A., occupying a house in a certain block, makes twenty thousand dollars a year, ten thousand of which he spends. Mr. B., who lives next door, makes only ten thousand, but, as his wife and daughters insist ton dressing as hardecomplete Mr. B. A and he is on dressing as handsomely as Mrs. A., and he is not willing to be outshone by a neighbor, he spends ten thousand also. Mr. C., who resides next door, ten thousand also. Mr. C., who resides next door, makes but five thousand, yet, like the rest, spends ten thousand. The first is getting rich; the second will leave nothing for his family when he dies; the third is sure to break, sooner or later, his failure being only a question of time." We thought this picture was not inapplicable to Philadelphia, though in a less degree than to our boasting, spendthrift, showy sister city. Of late years the love of display and the silly vanity out of which it grows have alarmingly increased here. Hundreds of families, in consequence, are laying up for themselves certain alarmingly increased here. Hundreds of families, in consequence, are laying up for themselves certain misery in the future, and getting nothing in return except a most unsatisfied present, for between the sneers of their neighbors, who generally know the truth about them, the contempt of the wise, and the reproaches of their own consciences, they enjoy really no happiness at all.

A more miserable delusion than that under which such persons labor cannot, indeed, be well conceived. If there is any maxim which is truer than another, it is that the only way to become rich, nay, the only way to avert poverty, is, to "lay by something for a rainy day." It is not always sunshine.

the only way to avert poverty, is, to hay by something for a rainy day." It is not always sunshine. Neither in the physical world, nor in business affairs, is it bright uninterruptedly. The cold, bleak days of autumn succeed the balmy spring and rosy sumer; and reactions occur in trade, involving to a greater or lesser degree even the most prudent. Men, in the full flood tide of success, are apt to fortest that the achievers to meat them. The timancial Men, in the full flood tide of success, are apt to forget that the abb is sure to meet them. The financial world is full of insolvents, most of them earning a scanty subsistence, who might have been in comfortable circumstances, if they had been provident in time. To nearly every person there comes at least one period of what some would call good luck; and if they take advantage of this, if they "make hay while the sun shines," their fortunes are won. But too many, instead of seizing the happy chance, and imitating the bee, which lays by in summer its winimitating the bee, which lays by in summer its win-ter's store, only launch out into larger expenses, squander as fast as they make, and die bankrupts, or fail before they die.

But it is not only those who enjoy large incomes who are extravagant, for extravagance is a relative term, and he who earns ten dollars weekly may be sa guilty of it as the merchant who realizes thou-sands. Perhaps, indeed, more persons with small incomes live beyond their means than those with large. The India shawl, the Sevres china, the Aularge. The India shawl, the Sevres china, the Aubusson carpet, the service of plate, the rich mirrors, or the costly equipage, are less extravagant for the millionaire than comparatively lower-priced articles for the mechanic, the clerk, or the day-laborer. He who, making but a dollar daily, squanders a shilling in beer is more of the spendthrift than the rich man who drinks his two dollar champagne. The savings which lay the foundation of wealth are rarer, we fear, among operatives than anywhere else. But some of the greatest fortunes which have been amassed in this country have belonged to men who began life as day laborers. The first dime that is laid up life as day laborers. The first dime that is laid up is the first step taken toward becoming a capitalist; and he who is a capitalist, even to the smallest degree, has an advantage in the rush and struggle for independence and wealth. Never live beyond your means, no matter how little your income! Every new saving will make further ones easier, will be a fresh steps in the superstature. fresh stone in the superstructure of your own for-tune, will enlarge your power to make money as well as increase your hope and energy.—Phila. News From the Gadsden Purchase.—A letter from Major E. E. H. Fitzgerald, of the first dragoons, dated at Calabazas (in the Gadsden purchase), May 4, is published in the Los Angeles Star. Our Los Angeles correspondent quotes the most interesting portion of this letter, but we give an additional paragraph or two

It is a part of a general movement in New Mexico against the Gila Apaches, who are supposed to have killed Col. Dodge, the Indian agent of the Navajoes. I have no further military news. Gen. A train arrived vesterday, one hundred and ten days from the depot of Albuquerque. Think of that, ye fast Californians—and yet they persist in supplying us from that side. I came with a wagon to this place in fifteen days from Fort Yuma. We get most of our latest news from the officers there, who are kind enough to forward us papers and items.

We live in rather a primitive way, yet much more cheaply than you would suppose. Our beef only cheaply than you would suppose. Our beef only costs us 4 cents a pound; butter, $1; milk is procured at a trifle, and is sold by Papago Indians about the camp in great jars holding several gallons each. There is plenty of poultry to be had, and some game. Our dwellings are in tents and shanties made of logs set upright in the ground, and roofed with dirt. The valley is a beautiful one, with fine cottonwood trees for shade, and plenty of mesquiet for fuel. The grazing at this point is excellent all the year round. The valley extends 80 miles in our territory. We are 8 miles from the Mexican line and 65 from Tueson.

Good oranges were abundant, and many other delicacies could have been procured, and will be, but there has been a comparative suspension for a while, as it is not altogether safe to travel. Just think of it, we have already a collector to look out for Uncle Sam's revenue.

A ROMANTIC MARRIAGE AND ITS END .- Young ladies of a romantic turn of mind may derive some wholesome experience of the misery which awaits ill-assorted marriages from a case now before the Paris tribunals, in which a Madame Chabre seeks to be divorced from her husband Monsieur Chabre, alias Lightning. The lady, it appears, is the daughter of a noble Belgian family, and was some years ago possessed of beauty, youth, and £7,200 sterling. It happened that, while visiting the circus of M. Dijeau, at Brussels, she fell desperately in love with the clown of his establishment, surnamed Lightning, probably from the marvellous manner in which he blazed away. She followed the interesting object of her passion to Paris, where she and Lightning were united in the holy bands of matrimony. But the ungrateful clown, after spending the property brought to him by his ro-Paris tribunals, in which a Madame Chabre matrimony. Hot and Cool.—"Whew! but it's hot!" said Brown, pantingly, as he met Jones, a fat neighbor, who revels in heat like a salamander, and is always jolliest in dog-days. But Brown is another sort of a man, and hates warm weather as cats hate hot soap, or Satan holy water, "Isn't it dreadful?" said Brown. "Why, I've gone through all the processes known to modern cookery within the last three hours; I've been steamed, parboiled, stewed, baked, fried, and roasted! Isn't it dreadful?"

"Not at all," said Jones, "I like it. There's no weather too hot for me, that I ever found or heard of." HOT AND COOL. - "Whew! but it's hot!" said

"That's lucky," said Brown, sarcastically—"for a man of your character and probable destination it's extremely lucky!" and Brown having made this remark, wiped his brow and retired in disgust.

A DISCUSSION AND A FIGHT .- A very discreditable affair occurred on the 24th ult. at Gallatin, questions are to be discussed by Gov. Powell and Mo., between the two opposing candidates for Govgiven of it by gentlemen who were present:

The undersigned citizens of Daviecs county state that they were present at Gallatin on the 24th inst., and listened to the i olitical olecussion between Major Rollins and Col. Stewart, the candidates for Governor. Major Rollins opened the debate in a speech of one hour and a half in length. Throughout his speech he was respectful in his bearing to his competitor and said nothing which could be constructed as personally offensive to Col. Stewart. After he concluded, Col. Stewart replied in a speech two hours long. In the course of his remarks, he dealt a good deal in personalities, and we regarded much that he said in bad taste, and unsuited to the decusion; amongst other things, he spoke of Maj. Rollins being the owner of Fertain organ grinders, and mentioned the name of at least one editor in this connection; he also charged, among other things, that Maj. Rollins was the candidate of the Black Republican party—that he had been brought out by F. P. Blair, and in one or two instances he designated him (Rollins) as a Black Republican party—that he had been brought out by F. P. Blair, and amongst other things stated in substance that ac Col. Col. Stewart remarked, you had better repeatthat statement a few times more, or words to that effect. Maj. Rollins advanc

A FEMALE IN DISGUISE—A STIR AMONG THE OMNIBUS FOLKS.—Mr. C———is the well known confidential clerk of an omnibus company located at the tri-tower structure, corner of Randolph and State streets. He is also something of a "blood" (we use the word in a mild sense), and is withal a favorite with the "best portion of humanity." About a month ago a vacancy existed in the large corps of passenger agents of the company, and Mr. C——introduced to the notice of his employers, a young person, Charley H——, who, through C——'s influence, readily secured the vacant situation. Charley was apparently not over eighteen years of age, quite handsome, remarkably intelligent, and decidedly "peert," as a hoosier would express it. Charley smoked cigars and took his "regular mips," very much as other bloods do, and could swear a round oath as lustily as the fastest of his companions, with whom he speedily became a favorite, and A FEMALE IN DISGUISE-A STIR AMONG THE OMround oath as lustily as the fastest of his companions, with whom he speedily became a favorite, and who unanimously voted him a regular brick. Charley performed the duties appertaining to his situation with remarkable promptness and fidelity, and soon won the good opinion of his employers. It is true, that on two occasions he "got on a tare" with his particular friends, but as he escaped all watchhouse experiences, and did not so overload his hat as to render locomotion decidedly inconvenient, these little indiscretions were kindly overlooked by his employers. Charley was getting along finely these little indiscretions were kindly overlooked by his employers. Charley was getting along finely, and his intimate friend C—— was not backward in sounding his praises in the right quarter and had he been content to shine in male society might become—but we are anticipating.

Both C— and Charley H— boarded at the F— House. Charley determined to become acquainted with the lady boarders, and of course succeeded, Here was Charley's first great blunder. This discovery was made on Monday evening, and Charley, in her own proper garments—crinoline, and all—was on her way to St. Louis before midnight. Those who ride on the Chicago, St. Paul, and Fon du Lac Railroad need not be surprised, after reading this item, that they miss the pleasant smiles and quiet "Stop at a hotel, sir?" of the handsome young omnibus agent. It was only a short time before Charley had urgent business in St. Louis that the following dialogue took place at the depot between a passenger and our took place at the depot between a passenger and our took place at the depot between a passenger and our hero, or rather heroine: Passenger—"Here, boy, be sure my valise goes up to the hotel." Charley—(indignantly)—"Boy! who do you call a boy? If you call me a boy I'd like to know where you'd find the men." This is no fancy sketch, but an "o'er true tale," as more than one person can attest.

WHERE WILL THEY GET HUSBANDS?-It appears by the last census, that the excess of females over males in the State of Massachusetts is 33,056. This excess is partly accounted for by the tendency among the sons of the Bay State to emigrate to other parts of the country, and by the resort of native and foreign females to the factories. In Lowell alone, the excess of females over males is 8,088. One thi certain: Massachusetts cannot furnish husband its marriageable female population, and Lowell, especially, we should think, would be an excellent place for bachelors who wish to get mated. In fourteen cities of Massachusetts the proportion of females to every 100 males was, in 1855, as toltows: In Boston, 108; Lowell, 153; Worcester, 104; Charlestown, 102; Salem, 120; Cambridge, 110; New Bedford, 110; Roxbury, 111; Lawrence, 117; Lynn 111; Springfield, 112; Newburyport, 123; Fall River, 116; Chelsea, 110 Springfield, 11 Chelsea, 110.

DEAD RABBIT SHIRTS—Among the latest improvements in underclothing is a shirt which we saw yesterday, worn by a rough looking customer on the New York boat, at the foot of Walnut street. The article had a white ground, and was embellished all over its surface with prints of dead rabbits hanging by the heels. The rabbits were done in vermillion. The garment was suggestive, and went to show that our calico printers are wide awake. We have seen mariners' shirts printed in an anchor pattern, but they have been in existence for a long period. The dead rabbit shirt, however, is a novelty. In our dead rabbit shirt, however, is a novelty. In our view, the man who wore it may be set down under the same head. He looked as though a sort of cross between a "Plug Ugly" and a "Hydraulic Ram."

Toy Balloons Dangerous.—The New York Commercial Advertiser warns the young people who use these novel playthings, that they may become dangerous articles by the introduction through the pores of the vulcanized rubber, of which the covering is made, of atmospheric air, which, uniting with the gas contained in the envelope, produces an explosive mixture analogous to fire damp. If by chance signified, the effects might be fearful. Another danger is the liability to inhale the poisonous gas, should a boy attempt to reinflate his partly exhausted balloon with air from his lungs.

What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when the using "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice, would not only render it sweet, but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate their friends will never mention it. Beware of counterfeits. Be sure each bottle is signed FETRIDGE & CO., N. Y.

STOMACH OR LIVER,

Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite. Despondency, Costivenes, Slind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheumatic, and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous instances, proved highly beneficial, and in otherseffected a decided cure.
This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was inhended more especially for those of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.
It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent sprits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in itseffect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.
NOTICE.—Whoever expects to find this a beverage will be disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low spirited it will prove a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION.

The great recomberds the singular remedial properties.

CAUTION.

The great popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these imitations. Steamboat Disasters on the Missouri River .- The following we copy from the St. Louis Republican

We learned yesterday morning of an accident to We learned yesterday morning of an accident to the steamer Edinburg, and of the sinking of the steam ferry-boat that is used at St. Charles. The particulars as we heard them are as follows: The steamer Edinburg, Capt. Dan. Able, left this port on Monday evening heavily loaded for Council Bluffs and other points on the Missouri river, and when just below St. Charles, on Tuesday morning, she ran on a log or a number of logs which lie tkere, and became so hard aground that it was found necessary to lighten the freight off before the logs. cessary to lighten the freight off before the boat could be set afloat. The ferry-boat at St. Charles was sent for, but did not come until 6 o'clock the was sent for, but did not come until 6 o'clock the same evening, during which time the boat was becoming in danger of breaking in two. The ferry-boat came to the Edinburg about 6 in the evening, and at a late bour that night was fully loaded and started for St. Charles to discharge, but on the way there it was snagged and sunk in deep water, and it is supposed that the freight on board was lost or badly damaged. When the ferry-boat left the Edinburg she was as hard aground as ever, and, as there wera no lighters to be had, it was thought that a portion of the freight still on board would have to be thrown in the river in order to prevent the boat from breaking in two. Yesterday mornthe boat from breaking in two. Yesterday morning the beliboat No. 6 left the foot of Market street for the purpose of raising the ferry-boat, saving the freight, and assisting the Edinburg.

THE CAPITOL AT WASHINGTON .- It is not

The Capitol at Washington.—It is not generally realized by our citizens that the eastern side of the Capitol is the principal front, and that the western side is in fact the rear. The main entrance to the center building is from the eastern front; and so will be the entrances of the new wings. The principal statuary of the center building is on the eastern front; and so will be that of the new wings. And it is to the East, to old Atlantic, and to the emigrant ship of the Old World, that the magnificent statue of Liberty on the new dome will look.

In this connection we will simply state that the statuary in marble designed to occupy the eastern gable pediment of the new north wing is now nearly completed; that for the south wing is not yet designed. In the center of the pediment will stand the "Genius of America," based on a rock, amid the lashing of Old Ocean, with the American Eagle couched at her left side, oak and laurel wreaths in her right hand, and her left partially raised in a supplicatory manner, as if invoking the blessings of Heaven upon the scenes shouther. On her left or plicatory manner, as if invoking the blessings of Heaven upon the scenes about her. On her left are to be arranged in order, and decreasing in height according to the angle of the pediment, a sturdy pioneer in the act of felling a large tree; an Indian hunter boy returning from the chase with his dog at his side, and a duck and rabbit hung over his shoulder on his hunting stick, an Indian chief sittings. nis side, and a duck and rabbit hung over his shoulder on his hunting stick; an Indian chief sitting on a rock, in deep meditation; an Indian mother reclining with an infant on her breast; an Indian grave overgrown with grass and wild flowers. On her right are to be ranged, in the same manner, an American soldier with his hand on his sword, ready to draw it at the call of his country. Mercetor, sitting American soldier with his hand on his sword, ready to draw it at the call of his country; Mercator sitting among the emblems of commerce, with his fingers resting upon the globe, as if it were his plaything; two American youths about twelve and fifteen, embraced and advancing, the younger with a book under his arm and the elder pointing forward and upward, as if they had set out to scale the highest peak of Parnassus; a schoolmaster with his arm around his little boy-pupil, studiously initiating him into the mysteries of the primer; an American mechanic reclining on a cogwheel; sheaves of grain, &c. The most of the statuary is now on exhibition in the Agricultural Committee Room, in the southwest corner of the new House of Representatives, and would well repay the visit of any one who has not already seen it.—Washington Union, July 25.

ATER FROM CAIRO-EXAMINATION OF THE PROTESS—A SCANDALIZING DOCTOR TROTTED OUT—AN IRISH SCHOOLMASTER IN TROUBLE. CAIRO, July 28, 1857.

The excitement in reference to the late riot has abated, partly owing to the successful examination of the rioters in custody, and partly to other causes of excitement. The rioters, whose names I sent to you yesterday, were to have been tried before Judge O'Shaughnessey, but, the vigilants not having confidence in him, or rather more in Judge Corcoran, procured a change of venue to the latter gentleman's court. On the charge of rioting, all were acquitted except Tom. Ewing, who was required to give bail in the sum of $200. The testimony was very vague against the others. They were then all accused of kidnapping, and the facts brought forth render their guilt certain. They were held in the sum of $200 each for their appearance before a higher court to answer this charge. They have not yet procured bail, and are still in prison.

Considerable excitement has existed to-day in The excitement in reference to the late riot has Considerable excitement has existed to-day in reference to one of our physicians, Dr. Woods, who has been escorted out of town by a company of genthemen, who notified him that his return would secure a coat of tar and feathers. I know nothing of the facts, and merely give you the street talk in reference to the matter. Dr. Woods resided here reference to the matter. Dr. Woods resided here some twelve months ago, and was hospitably received and boarded by a private family. There were several interesting daughters in this family, including one little creature about fifteen years of age. The Doctor seemed to become enamored of this girl and was very attentive to her. One day, however, the doctor happened to leave a private letter exposed, so that it reached the eyes of the father, and the letter was found to contain the most vulgar charges against the girl. The father immediately sought satisfaction by personal chastisement. He sought the Doctor out, fired at, but missed him. The matter was then taken in hand by others, and the Doctor escaped punishment by leaving the city prompttor escaped punishment by leaving the city promptly in twenty-four hours.

ly in twenty-four hours.

He went to St. Louis, and, as the story goes, there in solmn form reiterated the charges against the girl, declaring that he had had illicit dealings with her. The fact came to the knowledge of some friends of the family, who, knowing their entire falsity, exerted themselves to keep the matter from them and spare the feelings of the innocent young lady.

About six months ago, the doctor returned to Cairo, seemingly repentant of what he had done, and the subject was not revived. More recently however, he renewed his accusations in private con-and the subject was not revived. More recently, however, he renewed his accusations in private conversation, and a day or two since this fact came to the knowledge of some of the friends of the family. Yesterday he was waited upon by a delegation of our best citizens, and invited to walk over to Mayor Taylor's office. He accompanied them because he could not do otherwise. He was there made to retract in writing everything he had said against the young lady, and to apologise to her by the same instrumentality. He was then allowed two hours to prepare himself to leave the city. The self-constituted committee did not leave thim, but remained with him during the two hours, and then escorted him to the depot. Aboard the cars the doctor thanked them for their attention and regretted his inability to make them a speech. Had he remained here over night, the excitement against him, I am sure, would have resulted in his receiving a coat of inability to make them a speech. Had he remained here over night, the excitement against him, I am sure, would have resulted in his receiving a coat of tar and feathers.

We have another excitement. An Irish Catholic named Mahony, has been teaching school in Ohio City, Missouri, opposite this place, for a year past. During that time he made the acquaintance of a young American lady, of great personal beauty and handsome accomplishments. He made love to her, and as rumor has it, succeeded in winning the heart of the fair one, or at least securing her consent to a marriage engagement, if it met with the approbation of her parents. In the meantime, the pedagogue has removed here, and opened a school, and more recently addressed a note to the father of the young lady, asking her hand in marriage. The parent indignantly refused his assent. This called forth a long letter from the school-teacher, who told the father that he might as well consent, as the intimacy between the daughter and himself had destroyed her maidenhood! The contents of the letter became known in Ohio City, and caused the greatest excitement. Mahony has been ordered to leave Cairo, in double quick time, and a number of young Missourians are on his scent, determined yet to treat him to a suit of clothing which will stick closer to him than a brother.

It was stated in a telegraphic dispatch that official documents had been forwarded to the Government, contradicting the reports of Judge Drummond and others, about Utah. The following is one of

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH TERRITORY.

To the Hon. Jeremiah S. Black, Attorney General of the United States, Washington, D. C.

Sir:—My attention having been drawn to the letter of Justice W. W. Drummond, under date of March 30, 1857, addressed to yourself, tendering his resignation as Associate Justice for Utah, wherein my office is called in question, I feel it inremem my once is caned in question, I feel it incumbent upon me to make you the following report. Justice W. W. Drummond, in his fourth paragraph says: "The records, papers, &c., have been destroyed by order of Gov. B. Young, and the Federal officers grossly insulted for presuming to raise a single vuestion about the treasonable act."

I do solemnly declare this assertion is without the slightest foundation in truth. The records, papers, &c., of the Supreme Court in this Territory, togeth er with all decisions and documents of every kind belonging thereto, from Monday, September 22d, 1851, at which time said Court was first organized, up to this present moment, are all safe and complete in my custody, and not one of them missing, nor have they ever been disturbed by any person.

Again. In the decision of the supreme court in the case of Moroni Greene, the which decision was written by Judge Drummond himself, I find the following words: "That as the case for which Greene was convicted seems to have been an aggravated I do solemnly declare this assertion is without the following words: "That as the case for which Greene was convicted seems to have been an aggravated one, this court does remit the cost of the prosecution, both in this court and the court below." Greene was provoked to draw a pistol in self-defense, but did not point it at any one. He was a lad of 18 years old. Much feeling was excited in his favor, and he was finally pardoned by the Governor upon a petition signed by the Judges and members of the bar of the United States court, the Hon. Secretary of State, and many of the most respectable citizens of Great Salt Lake City.

bar of the United States court, the Hon. Secretary of State, and many of the most respectable citizens of Great Salt Lake City.

Again. In relation to the "incarceration of five or six young men, from Missouri and lowa, who are now (March 30, 1857), in the penitentiary of Utah, without those men having violated any criminal law in America," &c. This is an utterly false statement. But I presumes he alludes to the incarceration, on the 22d January, 1856, of three men, and on the 29th January, 1856, of one more. If so, these are the circumst unces: "There were quite a number persons came here as teamsters in Gilbert & Gerrish's train of goods, arriving here in December, 1855, after winter had set in. They arrived here very destitute, and at that season of the year there is nothing that a laboring man can get to do. Some of these men entered the store of S. M. Blair & Co., at various times in the night and stole provisions and groceries. Some six or eight of them were indicted fer burglary and larceny, three plead guilty, ank a fourth was proven guilty. The four were sentenced to the penitentiary for the shortest time the statue allowed for the crime. And just as soon as the spring of 1856 opened and a company was preparing to start for California, upon a petition setting forth mitigating circumstances, the Governor pardoned them, and they went on their way to California. It was a matter well understood here at the time, that these men were incarcerated more particlarly to keep them from committing further crime during the winter.

Since that time there have been but four persons sent to the penitentiary for forgery and petty larce-

Since that time there have been but four persons sent to the penitentiary for forgery and petty larceny for terms of 30 and 60 days, to-wit: one on the 19th November, 1856; two on the 24th November, 1856; and one on the 26th January, 1856. So that on the 30th March, 1857, and for several days previous there was not a white prisoner in the Utah penitentiary, nor is there at this date.

I could, were it my province in this affidavit, go on and refute all that Judge W. W. Drummond has stated in his letter of resignation by records, dates, and facts; but believing that the foregoing is sufficient to show you what reliance there is to be placed upon W. W. Drummond's word, I shall leave the subject. that time there have been but four person subject.

In witness of the truth of the foregoing, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed the L. s. seal of the United States Supreme Court for Utah Territory, at Great Salt Lake City, this twenty-fifth day of June, A. D. 1857.

CURTIS E. BOLTON, Deputy Clerk of the U. S. S. Court in the absence of W. I. Appleby, Clerk.

The New York Express, which has always been evidently opposed to Gen. Walker, comments on the last news from Nicaragua:

The news from Nicaragaa, that the two domestic factions, which now divide that distracted country, the "Chamoristas" and the "Leonistas," are at swords' points, and likely ere long to decide their respective claims to govern the country, by a pitched battle, gives color to the rumors floating about in the papers, that Gen. Walker is about to return there. pers, that Gen. Walker is about to return there Indeed, it is asserted as a positive fact that his old enemies, the Chamoristas, have sent the great filli-enemies, the Chamoristas, have sent the great fillbuster a special invitation to hurry back.

The Chamoristas, it will be recollected, were formerly the most deadly foes of the fillibusters, but they seem now to be so hard pushed by the opposite faction, that, with characteristic facility, they are ready to forget past enmities, and to make a man their leader whom they have just helped to drive ignominiously out of the country.

We do not know that we ever had much respect for General Walker, or for men of his stamp, but, bad as they may be, one can hardly help thinking that the worst of them are much too good for such a wrethed, quarreling crew as the native population of Central America. The bone of contention between the two parties, in the first instance, is the Presidency, a beggarly office at best, with but little pay, and no peace for its possesslon.

After the evacuation of the country by the fillibusters, the two factions alluded to, following the promptings of a petty ambition, improvised each a Provisional President, and the news we have now is, that, instead of waiting to decide rival claims at a special election, preparations were making to settle special election, preparations were making to settle the question in the usual Spanish-American fashion— a general battle. So far as the United States are cerned, we are not aware that we need care particularly which whips.
